(Washington, DC) - Today, Members of the U.S. House of Representatives cast their 1,000th recorded vote of the 110th Session of Congress. Congressman Jason Altmire (D-PA) is one of only five House members to have made every vote during this session, joining Reps. Kildee (D-MI), Regula (R-OH), Chabot (R-OH) and Jackson (D-IL) as the only members of the 435-member House to have perfect attendance.
